Media Excel and UDcast Complete Interoperability Testing for MobileTV DVB-H Solutions

Proven interoperability will bring greater flexibility and expand choices for DVB-H Mobile TV service providers

AUSTIN, TX and SOPHIA-ANTIPOLIS, France -- February 7, 2008 – Media Excel Inc., a leading provider of Next-Generation Transcoding Appliances for MobileTV, WebTV and Digital Media and UDcast, a global provider of wireless IP broadcast solutions, announced today they have successfully completed interoperability testing with the companies' respective DVB-H solutions.

The interoperability between Media Excel and UDcast will enable increased flexibility for DVB-H network providers and further establish Media Excel's leadership in the MobileTV DVB-H transcoding market.

"UDcast is committed to creating an ecosystem to deploy DVB-H Mobile TV services and the interoperability tests with Media Excel are another step towards giving service providers the necessary technology options to successfully launch Mobile TV," said David Richardson, vice president, business development, UDcast. "Together with Media Excel, we expand the market for future growth."

"We are very pleased with our collaboration with UDcast and are very excited about developing a relationship with a respected expert and leader in the DVB-H market," said Thanasis Iatrou, president and CEO of Media Excel. "This relationship and validation with UDcast will increase the number of compatible solutions available to DVB-H solutions providers and help solve a common issue in the market: lack of validated compatible solutions."

Media Excel's Next-Generation Transcoding appliances, recent recipient of the 2008 Frost & Sullivan Award for Product Innovation in World Video Encoders & Transcoders Market, are being used today by the largest MobileTV content aggregators in the world, broadcasters and service providers.

UDcast's technology is in 70 percent of the world's Mobile TV deployments including the first commercial deployments in Finland, Italy, India, Philippines and Vietnam. The company is a pioneer in the creation of Mobile TV standards (DVB-H, DVB-SH) that have enabled the Mobile TV ecosystem to develop through its partnerships with major telecom and broadcast infrastructure providers.

Media Excel will demonstrate their unique DVB-H solutions at Mobile World Congress 2008, February 11-14 at the Fira De Barcelona, Spain. Media Excel exhibiting at Hall 7, Booth F45.
